DETAILED ACTION

Claim Rejections - 35 USC § 112

1. The following is a quotation of the second paragraph of 35 U.S.C. 112:

The specification shall conclude with one or more claims particularly pointing out and distinctly claiming the subject matter which the applicant regards as his invention.

2. Claim 40 is rejected under 35 U.S.C. 112, second paragraph, as being indefinite for failing to particularly point out and distinctly claim the subject matter which applicant regards as the invention.

Claim 40 recites the limitation "said entire payload, including the at least one decrypting key". The payload and key as claimed in claim 39 are separate. It is unclear what is being added when stating that the payload includes the key.

Claim Rejections - 35 USC § 103

3. The following is a quotation of 35 U.S.C. 103(a) which forms the basis for all obviousness rejections set forth in this Office action:

(a) A patent may not be obtained though the invention is not identically disclosed or described as set forth in section 102 of this title, if the differences between the subject matter sought to be patented and the prior art are such that the subject matter as a whole would have been obvious at the time the invention was made to a person having ordinary skill in the art to which said subject matter pertains. Patentability shall not be negated by the manner in which the invention was made.

4. Claims 39 and 40 are rejected under 35 U.S.C. 103(a) as being unpatentable over Schulhof et al., USPN 5,572,442, in view of Cooper.

With regard to claims 39 and 40, as best understood, Cooper discloses a computer (column 3 lines 50-53), which encrypts a payload (column 3 lines 55 -57), replaces a portion of the payload with a tag (column 3 lines 57-63) that identifies a decryption key (column 4 lines 16-20), and sets a flag in a header that indicates that the payload has the tag (column 17 lines 17-23). Cooper discloses that the payload can be sent over a network (Column 9 lines 13-18). Cooper does not disclose that the payload is decrypted after being received from a protocol-specific device (third party). Cooper does not disclose where the payload is received from, but does disclose that the media is sent from a vendor to a user, and not from the designer to user (column 9 lines 6-9). Schulhof discloses that media to be stored on portable media is often received from a third party and is sent encrypted over a communication channel, specifically in Schulhof, cable television (column 11 lines 42-55). The examiner also takes official notice that information is frequently sent encrypted over communication channels, such as the Internet. It would have been obvious for one of ordinary skill in the art to use Schulhof's secure sending of information to send Cooper's software package from the software designer to the software vendor to keep it secure.

Allowable Subject Matter

5. Claims 1-30 are allowed.

The following is a statement of reasons for the indication of allowable subject matter: While Schulhof in view of Cooper discloses the partial replacement method, as disclosed above, there is no disclosure of a PCX module configured to process various data stream protocols routed to one or more application decoder modules based on a protocol corresponding to the data block. This limitation would not have been obvious to one of ordinary skill in the art.
